

Harnessing the Power of Progress Monitoring with Literacy Pro Test

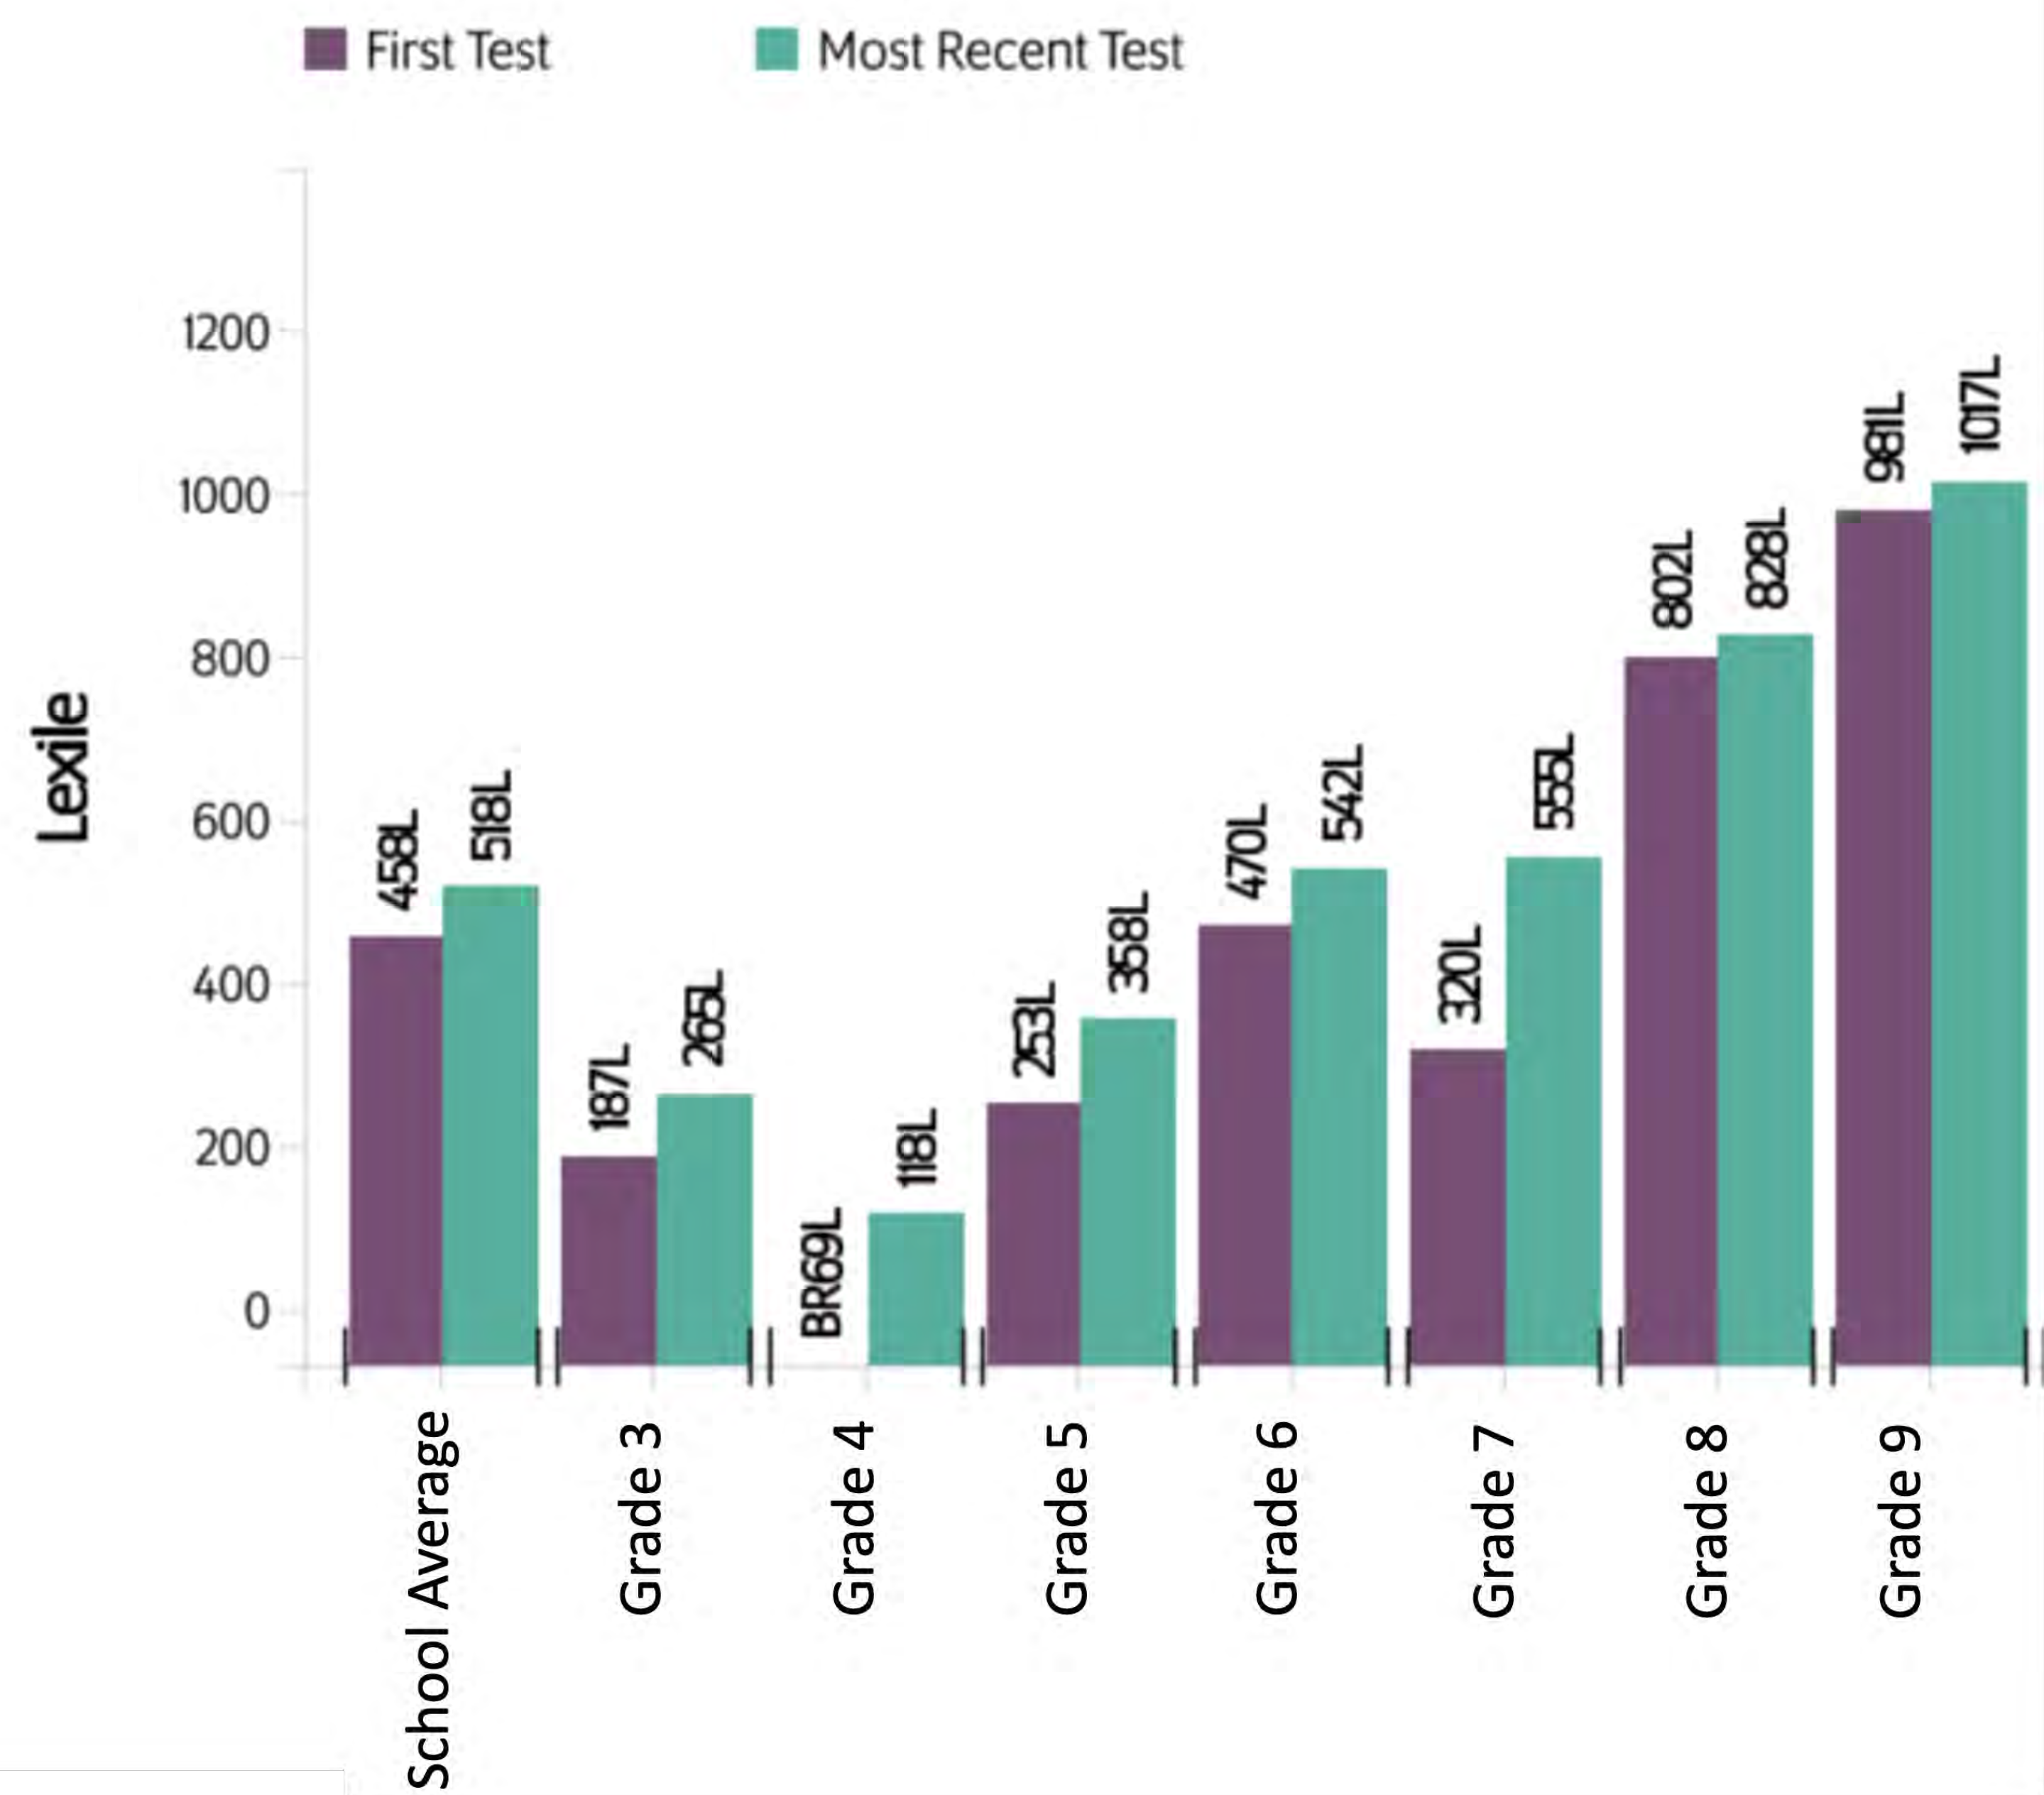

Kevallee International School, Thailand

With just under 100 students in their school, Kevallee International School started their Literacy Pro journey in 2018 as a means to get an accurate assessment of their students' reading comprehension skills. Prior to Literacy Pro, Kevallee International used their own internal system for assessing reading comprehension but found that they were unable to compare their own scores to other schools or districts, either in Thailand or across the globe. Additionally, due to the small student population, Principal Mr. Piriya says his school required an affordable solution that could fit their needs.

After adopting Literacy Pro, Mr. Piriya says he's found a solution to his problems. With Literacy Pro, Kevallee International School teachers have a better understanding of their students' reading abilities, and their students have become more engaged with reading on their own outside of class.

School Lexile Growth Report

With high gains across grade levels, Kevallee International School's School Lexile Growth report illustrates the success of regular testing and providing students with Lexile-appropriate books. Students take the LitPro Test 2-3 times a year, giving teachers access to real-time snapshots of performance.

How does Kevallee International use Literacy Pro?

Mr. Piriya says that the LitPro Test is the most valuable part of Literacy Pro in their school. Students take the LitPro Test three times throughout the school year to ensure their students are improving their Lexile score, and are always prepared to move up to the next grade level. Kevallee International School also integrates Scholastic Book Fairs into their school year, and rewards students for going above and beyond what is assigned to them in class. This combination of strategies is the key to their continued success with reading comprehension across all grades.

On the benefits of being a small school with Literacy Pro:

Students at Kevallee International School come from all backgrounds and rely on their teachers to understand nuanced differences in reading habits and performance. Due to the generous student-to-teacher ratio in the classroom, and the power of the LitPro Test, teachers have a meaningful understanding of each individual student's reading comprehension level and can recommend books that students love.
