

THE CLASSICS: HIDDEN TITLES

Classes 3-5

Write down ten different classic literature titles hidden within this story.

There was once a little prince who fell in love with a little princess named Beauty. Before they could marry, a wicked witch captured Beauty. The witch's name was Alice. In Wonderland she had a castle where she kept Beauty prisoner. Beauty's prison was covered with thick vines like a jungle. Book after book was given to her to pass the time but she read very little. Women were hired by the witch to see to her every comfort. The witch dressed her in gowns made of velveteen. Rabbit fur was sewn into a soft cloak for her. Still she was sad.

The little prince undertook an incredible journey to find Beauty. On the way he battled a strong wind. In the willows his horse refused to go on. The water had turned black. Beauty was in danger. But the prince knew the witch's secret. Garden flowers tossed in the castle window would release Beauty from the spell. First he asked the Borrowers for flowers but they had none. Then he asked his friends, Heidi and Pinocchio, but they had no flowers. Finally he went to his friend Tom's midnight garden and gathered as many flowers as he could carry. When he reached the castle where the little princess was held captive, he threw the flowers in the window and released the spell. They married and lived happily ever after.
